About Anne

FOUNDER OF DISCOVER YOUR BALI

Anne McCormick hadn't left the continent before when, in 2006, a friend convinced her to travel to Bali with him. Swept up by the amazing people and magical energy of Bali, Anne found she didn't want to leave. At the airport, she vowed to return for much longer. After her second trip to Bali, she promptly quit her job, sold her home in Alberta, and moved to Bali for months at a time.

A bookkeeper by trade, Anne began to realize she was happiest when showing friends and family around the beautiful country she has come to call her second home. She has dedicated her new career to running uniquely intimate group experiences for women who want to have their own adventure in Bali without having to do it alone.

A CUSTOMIZED TRAVEL EXPERIENCE UNLIKE ANY OTHER

Anne designed Discover Your Bali with herself in mind. She knew she didn't want to host an on-the-bus-off-the-bus style tour, with jam-packed days, fast-moving schedules, and a busy group atmosphere. She wanted to linger in places, let people explore, eat, and take it all in. She wanted to design a custom experience, allowing her group to get to know one another. She wanted a place to retreat by herself to recharge with a good book, and she knew others would want the same.

Discover Your Bali is whatever experience you want it to be. Anne balances travel days and busy days with relaxing local activities and free time. There are many experiences included in the package, from attending traditional ceremonies, snorkelling, hiking, visiting temples, and relaxing on the beach, but everything is optional. You always get your own room and Anne has capped the groups at 10 women to keep it intimate and fun.

Dos and Don'ts in Bali

- Drink bottled water, not tap water
- Do haggle in markets and street shops, don't haggle too hard or if you have no intention of purchasing
- Don't touch people's heads including kids (even if they are very cute). It is considered the most sacred part of the body
- Do cover shoulders & wear a sarong and sash (provided at most temples) when entering a temple
- Don't enter a temple whilst menstruating, or if you have an open wound
- Use your right or both hands when giving or receiving cash
- Don't use your left hand for handing over anything. Basically avoid using your left hand
- Don't use your forefinger to point. Instead use your right thumb or baby finger
- Don't crook your finger for someone to come to you
- Take your shoes off when entering someone's home. Helpful hint: whenever you see a row of flip flops outside a doorway, you should take off yours before entering
- Don't touch or point at someone with your feet – it is considered very offensive
- Don't lose your temper or raise your voice – this is also considered offensive
- To endear yourself to the Balinese, you only need to smile, keep your voice down, and be respectful
- Things run on Bali Time (a very relaxed schedule). Be patient

Frequently Asked Questions

Do I need to learn Indonesian words?

No you do not, although the locals appreciate when you greet them in Indonesian. Balinese are accustomed to English-speaking visitors and most of them speak passable English, especially in more populated areas.

How much is airfare to Bali from North America?

Airfare to Bali is typically under $1500.00 CAD.

What is the weather like?

I love to host people in Canadian winter, which happens to be wet season in Bali. Before you imagine endless torrents of rain, don't worry! Bali's wet season most often consists of 1 hour of downpour in the afternoon with the rest of the day being quite clear. It falls outside the geographic area in Asia that experiences monsoon, keeping it relatively dry. However, Bali is lush and green for a reason, so when it rains, we embrace it!

How long is the flight?

The total travel time from Canada, including airport stops, runs at about 24 hours. I know this is a big deal for a lot of people (and I don't want to let the journey stop you from seeing Bali!) so I've created a complimentary Sexy Savvy Guide to Air Travel to get you ready and comfortable for the journey.

Where will I transfer planes?

I choose flights based on the best price and easiest routes for you, so you might transfer planes in South Korea, Japan, or Taiwan.

What's the currency in Bali, and is it better to exchange before I leave home?

The currency is Indonesian Rupiah. You can exchange at home, but I suggest bringing Canadian or American cash with you and waiting until you land in Bali to trade currency, where the exchange fees are cheaper. I will take everyone for a cash run on the first full day of the trip. ATMs are abundant if you need to make more stops.

What is the best way to use my phone in Bali?

If your provider doesn't offer a great travel deal, I suggest unlocking your phone in Canada and purchasing a cheap SIM card in Bali. This is what I do when I'm there, and it's very cost effective. Another option is to simply leave your phone in airplane mode if you don't need to make calls or text, and use Wifi (available in all our hotels) to send emails.

What if I want to stay in Bali longer?

This is a popular question! I cap my experiences at two weeks to make it easy for people with standard two-week holidays. However, if you want to stay longer let me know and I can offer services to book your accommodations, ensure you have transportation, and support for the remainder of your time.

Can you help me if I want to travel to nearby countries after?

I know a lot of people want to see more while they're in the area, with popular destinations being Cambodia, Singapore, Vietnam, Indonesia, Australia, etc. I have connections with tour guides in some of these countries, so let me know well in advance and I may be able to offer you some support services.

The background of the image is a warm, golden-orange sunset scene. In the center, a traditional Chinese pagoda with multiple tiers and dark roofs stands on a small island or pier. The pagoda is reflected in the calm water of a lake in the foreground. The sky is a soft gradient of orange and yellow, with some faint clouds. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.
